

COOKIE POLICY

What are Cookies?

Cookies are pieces of information that are kept on your computer by a website you visit in order to allow you to perform certain functions on the website and regulate its content to your preference. They can store data and information about webpages on which you have already provided key information for (e.g. email, password), but only once you have been asked for and have accepted the storage of this data.

The cookies we use

1. Session cookies

These cookies, also known as 'transient cookies', are temporary and are designed to be deleted as soon as you close your browser. Session cookies are mainly used to keep hold of the information you provide us with as you navigate through each section of our website.

You can always select to decline session cookies via your browser's privacy settings.

2. Analytical cookies

Analytical cookies may include both temporary and more permanent cookies that we use to track and further analyze details such as how you use our website and for how long. They do not reveal any identifying information specific to your person, but they do help us improve how we provide you with our content.

Refer to your browser's privacy settings on how you can opt-out of analytical cookies.

3. Functional cookies

Functional cookies record and save your choices in order to provide a more seamless experience across our website. For example, one-way functional cookies do this is by remembering your language selection each time you visit us.

Refer to your browser's urgent privacy settings on how you can opt-out of functional cookies.

4. Third Party cookies

These cookies are used by third parties and mostly by social media websites like Google+, Facebook, Twitter or YouTube. Third Party cookies let us to offer you easy ways to share our content throughout your social media profiles and also present you with the videos we post on YouTube.

You can disable the use of these cookies through your browser's privacy settings, but please do note that this will also disable all the functions described above.

Reason for using cookies

TradeFred uses cookies to ensure the optimal functionality of our website and that we are able to cater our content to your personal preferences. You may rest assured that any personal information we collect directly or indirectly will not be shared with third parties without your permission.

Please read our privacy policy for more detailed information on how we use your data. If you have further questions please do not hesitate to contact us.

